Dear Supporters,

Thank you so much for your incredibly kind gift of £500.00, which will help our vital work with vulnerable children. By supporting the NSPCC, you're giving a very important gift to children at risk – the chance to live their lives free from abuse and fear.

The NSPCC runs a wide range of services and campaigns that help children across our regions because abuse and neglect can happen to any child, in any family, in any home. Our local service centres help children and families recover from abuse and neglect as well as preventing such suffering in the future. The NSPCC Schools Service helps local primary school children understand how to recognise and protect themselves from abuse. For those children who may be suffering in silence, we run Childline and the NSPCC Helpline – together these two helplines offer the chance for every child to speak out and every adult the chance to help save them from harm.

These important services are only possible thanks to wonderful donations like yours. Over 90% of our funding comes from people like you and without that support we simply would not be able to continue our work.

If you wish to find out more about our services for children or are interested in further fundraising or volunteering opportunities please do contact us on the number above for an informal chat.

The children we work with will never be able to thank you personally for the positive contribution you have made to their lives, so on their behalf please accept the grateful thanks of everyone at the NSPCC.

Yours sincerely
